

Machine Learning is a subset of AI that enables systems to learn and improve from experience without being explicitly programmed.

It involves algorithms that learn patterns from data and make predictions or decisions.

Types of machine learning include supervised learning, unsupervised learning, and reinforcement learning.

Applications include spam filtering, product recommendations, and image classification.